Course Description
A survey of the world's major regions. Geographic concepts and principles are used to study the physical, economic, social and political conditions and problems in the culturally diverse world.
Spatial expression of culture; specialized behavior patterns; adaptations and way of life in distinct environments. Regional interdependence; implications for development.

Course Overview
This course introduces you to the different regions of the world, their physical geography, climate, ecology, culture, people, politics, history, and economics. While the course does require you to know the countries and places in different regions, and a knowledge of such facts is important, emphasis will be given to several key socio-cultural issues and processes (in your textbook these are called “Geographic Insights”) that have shaped and are reshaping our world today.

We will examine several historical and contemporary themes. Firstly, we will explore the impact of colonialism and imperialism in different regions and its impacts on those regions. We will also study contemporary themes such as globalization, migration, urbanization, trade, conflict, etc.
and how these forces shape the different regions of the world.

Ultimately, the course is not just about learning facts about regions but also (perhaps more) about understanding and critically examining the processes that shape and change the world. Having a broad and integrative approach to understanding cultural, economic, political and environmental phenomena will in turn allow for students to develop the critical thinking and reflective skepticism that can lead to environmental and social sustainability.
The course is designed to introduce learners to the regions of our shared planet from a geographical perspective. At the end of the course, learners will be able to

1. Identify and define the different world regions, as well as understand the gendered and religious legacies of the societies of each region
2. Analyze the historical, political, cultural, and economic relationships that each region has to the rest of the world
3. Identify and critically analyze models of social and economic development in each region and how these have changed over time
4. Clearly and effectively communicate about issues associated with social justice and development in each region in writing and verbal formats

Course Policies: Student Expectations

1. Much of the course will be held asynchronously. Lecture material will consist of recorded lectures compiled into modules that correspond to the textbook chapters.
2. The course will be broken up into 3 modules of 4 sessions each, each with a set of readings and assignments.
3. You will be required to meet synchronously via Blackboard Collaborate Ultra TWICE A WEEK, at the beginning of the week’s first session (Tuesday 9:30 am) and at the end of the week’s second session (Thursday Noon) for a minimum of 20 minutes.
   ➢ Please view this primer: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1W4sGpVmJaY
4. Each module will have four sets of assignments: end-of-module exams (short-answer exams), a map quiz for each world region covered in the module (direct matching), short quizzes for each world region (except for chapter 1), and a 2-page reflection paper.
5. The exams, quizzes and map quizzes will be placed on Blackboard when the module opens. They are meant to assess your learning of the recorded videos and the course text. They will be taken down one week after the module ends.
6. There will be 3 short reflection papers assigned this semester. They will be made available at the beginning of the semester. They will all be due at the end of Week 6. However, it is a good idea to attempt to finish each paper during its corresponding week/module in the semester.
7. After Module 2 closes (on or about June 18th), I will post an extra credit assignment.
8. Should you need to contact me, please email me at rcampos@hunter.cuny.edu, with GEOG 150 in subject line and sign your name as it appears in CUNYFirst. I will do my best to respond within 6 hours, except for the weekends, when I might take longer.

Rubrics will be used to grade your all of Blackboard assignments and quizzes.

Please check Blackboard for the different rubrics used for the different assessments used in this course.
